

Wilson Ching'ani

My name is Wilson Ching'ani born on the 6th may 1983, a third born in a family of 5, now engaged to my fiancée Gloria Gomani (currently pursuing her Bsc in Nursing) mum to our 5yrs old son. I grew up in the Southern region of Malawi in a city called Blantyre. I did my primary school at Catholic Institute primary school and my o'level at Chiradzulu secondary school. From there I went to Malawi college of health sciences where I did my 3yrs diploma in clinical medicine and graduated in the yr 2005. As a junior physician I was posted at Zomba central hospital where I did my internship and worked for a year. Still under Zomba central hospital the ministry of health gave me a scholarship to go and study my 1st degree in medicine in Cuba where I stayed for 7 years. Now I am back and as a prerequisite of medical council of Malawi for registration I was supposed to do 8 months internship at either Queen Elizabeth or Kamuzu central hospitals (in Malawi currently these are the only hospital one can do internship as a medical officer).

Having love and passion for what I call my mother hospital Zomba central hospital I had plans of going back after my 8 month internship with Queen Elizabeth central hospital.

Throughout my medical study I had general surgery as my field of interest bearing in mind as were on how pursuing my career in that direction can change lives of people not only in Zomba and places around but also Malawi as a whole. Now thanks to JEZOHA scholarship I will be able to follow my dream at the hospital I have always wanted to be part of its success story. Once again I hope I speak for a lot of people at Zomba central hospital when I say thanks to JEZOHA for bring me back to my "family".
